

CHARLES B. WARD FRANKLY ANSWERS DEMOCRATIC CIRCULAR'S QUESTIONS

Has Lived in Sullivan County Twenty Years and Pays No Taxes Elsewhere—Roll Call Record Explained by Fact That Sometimes Score of Roll Calls Are Taken Before Vote on Question at Stake—A Prudential Policy Holder.

"Sullivan county is being flooded with little circulars attacking Congressman Charles B. Ward and urging a vote for his opponent, Burns, for the office of Representative in Congress.

The circular purports to give Congressman Ward's record of attendance in Congress as taken from the Congressional record.

Congressman Ward was in Kingston Saturday afternoon and promptly answered the questions asked in the little circulars as soon as they were brought to his attention.

"For the purpose of argument, I will assume that the figures printed in the circulars regarding the number of roll calls I answered are correct, without verifying them from the records," said Congressman Ward.

"According to the little circulars, during the three sessions of the Sixty-sixth Congress and the two sessions of the Sixty-seventh Congress there was a total of 1,019 roll calls, at 343 of which I was present and 676 was absent.

"If the Burns figures are correct, I was present at more than one-third of the roll calls during four years, which I think is about the average of a representative who, of course, cannot be sitting in his seat waiting for roll calls and at the same time be present at the numerous public hearings before committees or which he is a member, or appearing before other committees on bills, which his constituents are interested in, or visiting the various departments to look after the matters requested by the men and women back home, because the departments are not open in the evening, but close at the same hours as the departments in the various state governments. I will take it for granted that the Burns figures have not been garbled.

"The figures look big—look as if I had been running away from something—until a person remembers the numerous times when the roll is called on inconsequential details in Congress as well as in any other legislative body or in any organization or society of any kind. But whenever a measure has reached the stage of important amendment or passage, then I have been there and by my vote have tried to indicate whether I stand for the interests of the men and women of this district. In many cases there may be several roll calls before the matter finally comes up for absolute determination.

"I have in mind one glaring abuse of the right to demand a roll call, in which one member of Congress who was interested in keeping up a filibuster had nineteen roll calls taken on incidental matters not related to the main question. There are roll calls on motions to amend in some minute particular not vitally affecting the measure, and frequently I am tempted to cause delay, and I doubt if any human being would find it physically possible to sit in his seat waiting to answer roll calls and also attend to other duties.

"Without passing any criticism on the fairness of the implication of the Burns questions, I shall answer them fairly and categorically.

"Does Ward Represent You? That is the first question.

"My answer is, that I have tried to represent the Twenty-seventh district to the best of my ability, and I hope that every voter who gets one of these little circulars will fairly answer that question from their own experience with me.

"Does Ward Live in This District? That is the second question.

"My answer is, I do. I have lived here twenty years and expect to continue to live here because my home and business are here. My home is at DeBruce, Sullivan county. I built my home there before I married. I brought my wife to that home and have raised my family there. I never owned any other home and have never paid taxes in any other place than Sullivan county, and don't expect to. I am glad to say I am the owner of 1,700 acres of Sullivan county land. I am also proud of being the owner of The Liberty Register, and the DeBruce Inn, and I am proud of the fact that my neighbors have enough confidence in my being a resident of Sullivan county to have elected me president of the Livingston Manor National Bank, near DeBruce.

"What Has Ward Accomplished for 'You' in Eight Years? That is the third question.

"I will have to leave that to the people of this district to answer, but I might say that in eight years I have tried to perform every request it was possible for me to perform. How successfully I have done my duty is not for me to answer, but rather for the people who asked me.

"What Industry Has Ward Helped in 'Your' District? That is the next question.

"Now, that is another question someone else must answer, but I should like to say I have at all times tried to help every industry in this district, manufacturing or agricultural, by my vote on every important bill which has been before Congress in my term of service, on all of which I have tried to vote according to my best judgment as to what would be the greatest help to the Twenty-seventh district.

"Has Ward Had 'Your' Interest at Heart in Eight Years?"

"From the bottom of my heart I can say I have. Trying to help other people is not only a man's duty but his pleasure. I have always tried to help any resident of this district which has shown me such distinguished honor, and if I am re-elected I certainly want to continue the satisfaction that comes to a man when he knows he has succeeded in helping someone. Sometimes it may take time, but the satisfaction of doing something more than re-pays a person.

"If Ward is Absent From His Duty to 'You' in Congress, Where Does He Spend His Time and Whom Does He Represent? That is the sixth question.

"Now that question asks 'If I am absent, but they want to know about me, and I will tell them and everybody. Anybody who has visited Washington while Congress was in session never had trouble in finding me. If no important matter is coming up for vote at the week-end, I often spend Sunday at DeBruce with my family, and there have been times when I have visited each of the counties of this district while Congress was in session to investigate personally some matter which required action. And of course I have not neglected the necessary duties of the Livingston Manor National Bank or my own affairs—did anybody ever hear of a member of Congress who neglected his own affairs unless he also neglected the affairs of his district? Such a man doesn't stay long anywhere, except the bankruptcy court, and because I have some pride not only in myself but in this district, I don't want to go there.

"Is This the Answer? Does Ward Represent the Prudential Life Insurance Company of Newark, New Jersey? Ask Ward! That's the last of the seven questions.

"Nobody can answer that question except myself, and my answer is 'No.' I have taken out two policies of insurance on my own life in the Prudential, which now and for many years has been a mutual company, owned by the policy holders, in which every policy holder is a stockholder and who are the only persons who can profit by dividends, which are applied to reducing their annual premiums.

"Perhaps it is wrong for me to carry any life insurance, but I believe life insurance is a debt every man owes to his family, and I may have been influenced in selecting the Prudential because my father was one of the original directors. He has been dead twenty-six years.

"This little circular says Mr. Burns is 'A Business Man to Represent You and Guard Your Interests. A Vote for John J. Burns for Congress is a Vote for Honesty and Efficient Representation. Look Inside and see the other fellow's record. Taxation Without Representation is Tyranny.'

"I have tried to furnish about myself the information that is asked for in the little circular, except such information as only men and women of this district who have written to me on different matters can answer for themselves. It is no more than fair that I should be allowed to ask this one question in return:

"Is Mr. Burns a business man or a retired business man, and in either case, where does he stand on any public question?"

"Now that I have answered the Burns questions, it is only fair for me to request the voters of the Twenty-seventh district to 'Ask Burns.'

TOMPKINS BREAKS LEG IN A FALL FROM A LADDER

Irving Tompkins of No. 39 Prospect street sustained a compound fracture of the lower right leg in a fall from a ladder at the Maan building on lower Broadway Saturday evening. He is employed by the Canfield Supply Company and was busy finishing up some steam piping work when he made a misstep and fell from the ladder. He was taken to the Kingston City Hospital where he was attended by Dr. A. A. Stern.

Our Growing Population.

The following births have been reported to the health board:

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Perry, 75 Garden street, a daughter, Georgiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Schultz, 1 Fitch street, a daughter, Margaret Marie.

Hospital Auxiliary.

The regular monthly meeting of the Auxiliary of the City of Kingston hospital will be held at the hospital on Tuesday, October 31st, at 2 o'clock instead of 2:30, the usual hour, so that members may attend the Red Cross meeting immediately following.

Spinneberger Buys Busses.

William P. Glass, local agent for the Larrabee and Traffic trucks has sold two sixteen-passenger Larrabee busses to Fred Spinneberger of Port Ewen for the Kingston-Port Ewen bus line.

Jupiter May Be Inhabited.

The French astronomer Flammarion says there is a possibility that Jupiter is inhabited.

Texas Company Leases Valuable Broadway Plot

The Texas Company has leased from John J. Cuneo and Mary A. Cuneo, his wife, for a term of five years, the property on Broadway, between Van Buren and Van Dusen streets.

The property has a frontage of 158 feet on Broadway, 125 feet on Van Dusen street and 56 feet on Van Buren street. The rental for the first year is $1,400 and it increases $100 a year for each year of the life of the lease. The company also has an option of purchase of the property within the first three years at $20,000 and during the last two years at $22,000.

Plans of The Texas Company for development of the property have not been announced, but it will probably be used in connection with the oil and gasoline business.

The tract leased by The Texas Company was sold some time to Mr. Cuneo and others, and subsequently Mr. Cuneo purchased his associates. Formerly it was owned by the J. Albert Morrill estate and the Van Dusen estate and for more than twenty years was on the market at a comparatively low figure without finding a buyer. In the present negotiations The Texas Company was represented by Henry Klein.

HALLOWEEN WINDOW ATTRACTS MUCH ATTENTION

One of the prettiest Halloween windows in town is that of the Columbia Shop on Fair street. To Lew Shaw must go the credit for the artistic decorations. The decorations consist of cornstalks and bitter-sweet berries arranged in the background with here and there a pumpkin or an ear of yellow corn. Colored autumn leaves give a touch of color and in one window is a Columbia machine and from the cabinet appears the head of a deer. At night the window is lighted with amber colored lights and attracts a great deal of attention.

KOSHER MEAT MARKET OPENS TOMORROW UPTOWN.

Philip Adushefsky will open tomorrow morning at 76 Crown street an up to date Kosher meat market, this being the first of its kind in the upper part of the city. Mr. Adushefsky for several years conducted a market in Boston and is a former Kingston resident.

George J. Lebert Dies After Being Injured at Work.

George J. Lebert of Springfield, Mass., formerly of this city, died at the Springfield Hospital from a compound fracture of the skull.

A machine that was cutting bushings had a long piece of tubing sticking out of the end of the machine and the piece was revolving on a steady rest. It happened that the piece flew off the steady rest and then bent. Mr. Lebert happened to be taking a piece of forging in the toolmaker and as he passed by the tubing struck him on the right side of the head. The machine was traveling so fast that no one could have avoided it.

The accident happened at 3:45 p. m. on Thursday, October 26.

He is a brother of Charles Lebert, the letter carrier, and Henry Lebert of this city. The remains will arrive in this city tonight on the 6:15 West Shore and brought to the funeral parlors of James M. Murphy on Broadway. Funeral arrangements later.

NECESSITY FOR STRICT COAL CONSERVATION NOT YET PAST

The State Fuel Administrator has instructed the Ulster County Fuel Administrator to advise the coal dealers and the public generally of Ulster County of the great shortage of anthracite coal and the absolute necessity of every consumer curtailing in every way possible the use of anthracite coal until conditions as to supply are improved.

We know your coal dealer is doing everything possible to obtain coal and we believe he will do all in his power to effect a fair distribution of the coal received by him, but if your coal dealer does not receive the coal he cannot make distribution to the public.

Wherever it is possible householders should use buckwheat coal, pea coal or wood. This buckwheat and pea coal, particularly buckwheat, can be easily obtained and can be used where there are steam heating facilities. Public buildings, schools and churches should undertake the use of buckwheat, pea, bituminous coal or wood. There is no restriction on the use of buckwheat, pea or bituminous coal, and any buckwheat, pea or bituminous coal ordered by you will not interfere with the regular sizes in anthracite coal to which you may be entitled.

It is not the desire of the Fuel Administrator to alarm you as to the situation and it is believed that if the use of anthracite coal can be conserved, wherever it is possible to conserve it, there will be anthracite coal enough to take care of the needs of all of the people during the severe cold weather.

JOHN D. SCHOONMAKER,
Fuel Administrator, Ulster County.

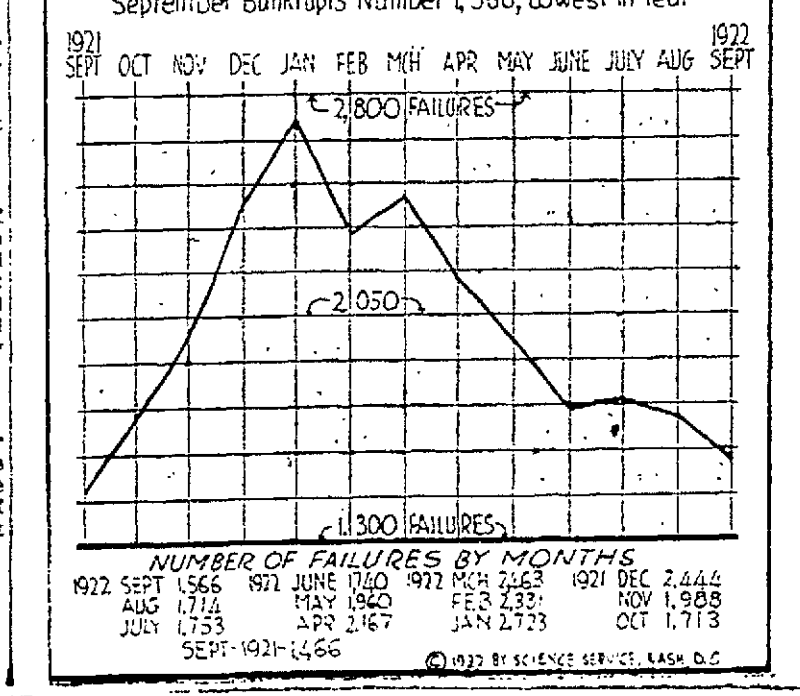

CHARLES R. O'CONNOR,
Deputy Fuel Administrator, Ulster County.

WOMEN'S CLUB FEDERATION MET

Interesting Program of Business and Dialectical Lecture Provided Saturday by Olympian Club.

The open meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs which was held on Saturday afternoon in the lecture room of the St. James M. E. Church was well attended, considerable business was transacted and a most interesting program was provided by the entertaining club, the Olympian Club.

Mrs. G. F. Rice, the president, presided at the business session, and in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Harry Walker, Mrs. Edgar N. Pallen acted as secretary pro tem. The treasurer, Mrs. Harry P. Van Wageningen, reported $47.79 in the treasury, with some unpaid bills.

An invitation was received from the Twentieth Century Club to the members of the federation to attend an informal reception to Mrs. Flynn Roosa, recently elected treasurer of the State Federation, and member of the Twentieth Century Club, on Monday afternoon next, from 3 to 5 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Philip De Garmo, 97 St. James street.

From the various club reports it was learned that the Monday and Athlone Clubs are taking up the study of psychology this winter, with a course of seven lectures, beginning next Wednesday. The lecture will be given by Dr. Washburn of Vassar, and after the lectures the Clubs will prepare papers according to the topics of the lectures. The Lowell Club is studying "The Bible in Literature," and reported a contribution of $25 to the Federation House at Washington, D. C. The Olympian Club has "Japan" for its subject of study this year, and The Coterie is studying "Life in Bible Times."

"Modern Novels" is taking up the attention and study of Sorosis, which club contributed $10 to the Federation House.

Coming to the committee reports, Dr. Mary Gage-Day, chairman of the public health committee, reported that the MiliBank fund demonstration (tuberculosis) had not yet been lost to Ulster county; in fact has not yet been decided upon for any locality. Dr. Day asked the federation women to again take charge of the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal sale in the city this season. But before urging such action, Dr. Day told of some of the things in our own county that have been done with the money which he have realized from the previous seal sales when the federation women took charge of the city sales. The special tuberculosis nurse for the city and county has been secured, also an automobile for her, so that she may be enabled to cover the county and make follow-up visits. Then Dr. Stanley Wang, an expert tuberculosis diagnostician, himself a tuberculosis cure, has been secured for monthly "chest" clinics, given one month in the city, the next month in the county. Dr. Wang, who has made a host of friends among the men, women and children of the county, charges only $15 a visit with expenses, so that the cost of each clinic has been about $25, but the good accomplished has been immeasurable. Then Dr. Day gave some interesting statistics showing the decrease in death rate in Ulster county since we began tuberculosis work in 1907. In that year our death rate per 100,000 was 160.3. For 1921 it was 111, a decrease well worth working for. It was voted that the federation women should again be responsible for the seal sale in the city this year.

In connection with the Federation booth at the Exposition, a vote of thanks was extended to the Chamber of Commerce for generously donating the use of the booth to the Federation; to Gregory and Company for the loan of furniture in the Federation rest booth; to Mrs. Pallen for the loan of a rug; and to Mr. Reiner for assisting the women in the construction of the booth.

Owing to the fact that the Federation has in the fund given it by the past past Jubilee Committee for its lecture course fund a sufficient amount to carry on the work along that line; and inasmuch as the Federation needs funds for the furtherance of its regular work it was voted to rescind a previous motion placing the money received from the Bennett lecture course in a special lecture fund. It was also voted to transfer the money received from the Bennett lectures to the general Federation treasury.

The Federation then considered the Girls' Welfare work which it hopes to inaugurate, even if it has to be in a very small way this winter, and it was finally decided to have a committee appointed to gather the necessary data regarding number of employed girls in our city; whether employed in factories or stores, etc.; whether living at home or in boarding houses, etc. Mrs. Dickinson was made chairman of such committee, to report to the next executive committee meeting.

Apologies of the concert to be given by Miss Los Kamp and assisting artists at St. Mary's Hall on the evening of Friday, November 10, for the benefit of the Federation, the treasurer asked that each club keep track of all its tickets sold, also keep all moneys from the sale of tickets, together with any unsold tickets there may be, and turn all in to her at one time, in order that the financial accounting may be simplified. Already there has been a gratifying sale of tickets for this concert.

The Federation of Woman's Clubs was represented, particularly by its president, Mrs. G. F. Rice, at the

U. S. MARINE BAND CONCERTS AS WONDERFUL AS PREDICTED

Three Thousand Persons Listen to Two Fine Programs—Brass Instruments Made to Equal Symphony Orchestra in Effect.

The combination of the United States Marine Band, the Kingston Rotary Club, a group of boys, and a perfect autumn day and evening, proved utterly irresistible to at least three thousand people on Sunday. The huge drill shed of the Armory held at least fifteen hundred—and in the evening probably more—enthusiastic people at both concerts of the Marine Band which played two remarkably fine programs and a most generous number of encores. Some one well said, "That is no band, that is a symphony orchestra in brass," and when brass instruments can be so made and such musical artists can be secured to play them, little wonder that Richard Wagner made the use that he did of brasses in his master works! It was hard to believe that such an aggregation of instruments without one string instrument among them could be so flexible as the Marine Band proved itself to be in the exquisite serenade, "Spring Morning," by Pierre Lacome as played in the afternoon, and played with extreme delicacy by Robert E. Clark was the principal musician in the afternoon, playing the trombone solo and that beautifully. The encore numbers were: National Anthem March by Bagley, after the Egmont Overture by Beethoven; Japanese Patrol by Scharbau (a member of the band) after the Serenade by Lacome; "At Dawning" by Cadman, a trombone encore; "Monastery Bells," by Le-Pierre after the Grand Scenes from "Manon Lescaut" by Puccini; "Quartet" from Rigoletto after the splendidly played "March Slav" by Tchaikowsky; and the incomparable "Sextette" from Lucia di Lamermoor after the Quartet; "Semper Fidelis March" by Sousa (the official march of the U. S. Marine Band) after "The Blue Danube Waltz" by Strauss—one of the most familiar numbers on the program. No number played either in the afternoon or evening was finer or more inspiring than the "War Fare and King's Prayer" from Wagner's Lohengrin, which was next to the last number on the afternoon program.

It seemed a mighty big pity that there had to be one discordant note in such magnificent concerts, yet it was there and will have to be spoken of in the hope that it will not be sounded again by any Kingston audience. The last number on both programs was "The Star Spangled Banner, Our National Anthem." That wonderful aggregation of musicians sprang to their feet and with military precision of bearing played that National Anthem as no other band ever plays it. What did the audience of hundreds of American citizens listening to our Federal Band do? Did they stand at attention as would have our English cousins during the playing of their national anthem, or did they so much as stand respectfully still, to the end? It was Sunday and there was no occasion for hurry, yet the majority of those present made "Our National Anthem" the occasion to put on their wraps or began walking to the door. What can be adequately said for such a performance?

At the evening concert the band was in its full dress uniform of scarlet coats with bands of blue, brass buttons and white cord decorations with blue trousers having side bands of scarlet and gold braid, making with the beautiful instruments a most brilliant picture. The encore numbers in the evening were: after the opening Overture "Der Freischütz" by Carl Maria von Weber, an exquisite little number, "Spring Zephyr" by Vassella; after the vivid "Hymn to the Sun" by Rimsky-Korsakov, "Stars and Stripes Forever" by Sousa. And one must stop right here to say that however well this band of plays orchestral or operatic numbers, there is a thrill to their playing of military marches that is simply irresistible. After the cornet solo—a rarely beautiful number—"Le Reve d'Armour," by Haydn-Mullars with Arthur S. Witcomb the principal musician, he played as his encore, "Mother McCree."

No encore number was played after the tremendous Tone Poem, "Finlandia," by Jean Sibelius, a marvelous composition, magnificently played.

After the intermission, "Entrance of the Gods in Walhalla," by Wagner, was so splendidly given as to bring an encore, the Lucia Sextette, which was this time followed by the Rigoletto Quartet.

The grace of the ballet music "Coppella," by Delibes, was followed

3,600 ATTENDED EXPOSITION ON SATURDAY; THE PRIZE WINNERS

Wannop Twins Head List in Perfect Child Contest—The Misses Davis, Durr and Rodgers Voted Best Models—Others Get Articles Ranging From Hams to Stove.

If there is anyone, and it does not seem possible that there can be one, who has any fault to find with the first Exposition given by the Chamber of Commerce and the manufacturers, and merchants of this city, at the Kingston Fair Grounds, which continued for nine nights and eight afternoons, he or she should stop right out in the open and tell what it may be in order that the live wire people who worked so hard to make the Exposition the great big success that it was, may take it under consideration when they start their arrangements for the one that they surely must hold next year. While the weather was cold last week, there was however, only one rainy evening, and the attendance increased each day until Saturday when there were about 600 at the Exposition in the afternoon and nearly 3,000 in the evening. The people were jovial and enjoyed going around viewing the different booths, drinking sample cups of coffee, eating free pancakes, devouring the Forest all-hot Kingston mare frankfurters wrapped in Mrs. Salzmann's rolls, while many carried home a dozen of the Salzmann doughnuts, made right before their eyes.

When not viewing the exhibits, watching Otto, of the Piccolo Midgots smoking a cornoc pipe, hearing Al King sing, the people heard the Leo Perrin play the xylophone, saw the dancing or applauded while the winners were awarded the prizes. Saturday was one big night at the Exposition for all who were there, and all who had anything to do with it, being held here as to be congratulated on its big success throughout.

Were Awarded Prizes.

The prizes at the Exposition were awarded as follows:

Most Perfect Children—John W. Ham Wannop, 94 per cent. Prize, Auto Go-Cart, presented by Chamber of Commerce and F. W. Diehl.

Second—Henry Ward Wannop, 89 per cent. Prize, Sweater, presented by S. Cohen's Sons. The Wannop children are twins, four years of age, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Wannop, 275 West Chestnut street.

Third—Hazel D. Walsh, 86 per cent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walsh, 74 Cedar street. Prize, Mink Toy dress, presented by L. B. Van Wageningen Company.

Fourth—Helen Green, 85 per cent, aged two years and eight months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Green, 63 Johnston avenue. Prize, Bonnet, presented by Wonderland Company.

Fifth—Howard Jones, 85 per cent, aged 7 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Jones, 93 North Front street. Prize, Football, presented by Charles A. Warren.

When the announcement was made of the five most perfect children they were on the stage and as each name was called out the winners were cheered.

Mrs. G. F. Rice, Mrs. C. B. Dickson and Miss Hart, the committee on judging the attractiveness and arrangement of the booths gave as their verdict of selection of the ones entitled to the ribbon, as follows:

Merchants' Class—Forsyth & Davis, first; Gregory & Co., second.

Manufacturers' Class—H. W. Pallen's Sons Co., first; Van Slyke & Horton, second.

The Red Wing Floor booth was given a ribbon for having the most unique display.

In the Popularity voting contest for models in the style show Miss Priscilla Davis in the junior class received 153 votes and Elsie May, a blue umbrella from S. E. Elshmeier, dry goods merchant, Miss Thelma Durr who received 96 votes in the senior class contest was awarded a lady's hat, from the Up-to-Date Co.

Miss Estella Rodgers with 90 votes was second. The winners who appeared on the platform before the crowd making a pretty picture in their beautiful gowns, were applauded as they received the prizes.

Copetta DiMuccio and Vincent Van Bramer were winners in the prize dance, the lady receiving a fine bar pin presented by Richard Meyer, jeweller on Broadway, and the partner an Eversharp pencil from Forsyth & Davis.

Harry L. Lown of 89 Prospect street got the Royal Combination range valued at $350 at the Gregory & Company booth. At the booth of L. Barth, manufacturers of hotel equipment the meat from the Jacob Forst Co., that had been displayed in the Barth refrigerator and hotel range, was disposed of and Arthur Wirth of Prospect street received a large ham. Mrs. Robert Moore of Crown street a 10 pound ham, and Mrs. George Salzmann of 153 Green street a pair of lard. At the booth of Dwyer & Co., Louise Myers of Garden street, was awarded a gallon pail of paint.

1,800 PYTHIANS
SEE DEGREE WORK

Rank of Page Conferred on 100 by Schenectady Team at Armory
Here—Franklin Lodge's Greatest Night.

Saturday night, October 28, was the greatest of all nights in the fifty-two years history of Franklin Lodge, No. 27, Knights of Pythias.
By special dispensation of the Grand Chancellor the rank of Page was conferred upon one hundred candidates in the presence of eighteen hundred Knights. The work was conferred by the team from Truth Lodge, No. 288, of Schenectady, in special form and with the drama of Damon and Pythias. Every seat in the armory where the convention was held was filled before the appointed time for opening and hundreds of extra chairs and seats had to be brought in to accommodate the large crowd. It was probably the largest number present at any fraternal meeting ever held in this city. There were visiting Knights from every lodge in the Hudson Valley and from many lodges in New York city, Long Island, and upstate as far as Buffalo. Many Grand Lodge officers and noted
Pythians were present including Grand Chancellor William J. Park
of Buffalo; Grand Vice-Chancellor Mondelohn of Brooklyn; Judge
Spokane of Fort Plain, Grand Prelate; George Blakely, Yonkers; Grand Tribune; Edgar S. Hallock, chairman of finance committee of the Grand Lodge; and John J. Miller of Baldwin, L. I. and others.

The work was conferred in splendid style under the direction of Hiram Moss Jones, Master of the Work of Truth Lodge, Schenectady.
Over one hundred members of Truth Lodge took part in the rendition of the work in special costume and with special music. All the Knights present agreed that it was the most beautiful ritualistic work they had ever seen. With the decorations and paraphernalia and the work rendered almost perfectly those who were privileged to be present expressed themselves in highly complimentary and commendatory
terms of the efficient and proficient Truth team.

After the rank of Page was conferred upon the large class which occupied about three hours, John E.
Locke, Grand Chancellor, Commander of Franklin Lodge, turned the meeting over to Palmer Canfield, Past Grand Chancellor and the Supreme Representative. He expressed to Truth Lodge the admiration and the appreciation of those present and then in appropriate words presented to Hiram Moss Jones, who had charge of the work, as representing the rank team of Truth Lodge, a beautiful and large loving cup as a token of Pythian friendship from Franklin Lodge. Master of Work Jones was much affected by the presentation and accepted it with fitting expressions of thanks and referred to his long service in the order and of the strong feeling of friendship that binds Franklin and Truth Lodges. Impressive addresses were made by Grand Chancellor Park, Grand Vice-Chancellor Mondelohn and Grand Prelate Spokane. The meeting adjourned at midnight after all joined in singing America.

Before the meeting Franklin Lodge served supper to over six hundred Knights at its lodge rooms.
The team from Schenectady came down in forty automobiles and were met at Saugerties by a large delegation of members from Franklin Lodge in autos. Most of the visiting Knights came in automobiles and motor stages and the new parking space next to the armory was filled as well as Hoffman street with an overflow on Broadway. It was certainly Pythian night in Kingston on gratulated Franklin Lodge upon the wonderful success of its meeting and for the splendid hospitality shown.

GUEST HOTEL IS PLANNED AT HIGHLAND

A handsome hotel is to be built in Highland, it became known after a visit to that village by a representative of the Wyckoff Corporation, of New York, builders of hotels in many states and cities. The deal has reached the stage of elaborations and specifications, action upon which is soon to be taken.

The hotel will be located on the main line at travel north and south through the village and a large site is said to be under contract.
Accommodations are planned for two guests. There will be large rooms for the holding of social events and smaller dining rooms for the use of Chamber of Commerce
luncheons and similar events.

Before Vacation.
Little bank roll, cry we part,
Let me hug you to my heart.
For a year I've clung to you,
I've been faithful you've been true.

After Vacation.
Little bank roll, one glad day
You and I both went away
To a gay and festive spot,
I've come back, but you have not!

Money talks. Did you ever see a man's head on a silver dollar?

This is the day and age when women make their husbands obey them
but not their children.

A North Hill woman says that home is a place where woman works 14 hours a day.

Crusoe Advertised.

Robinson Crusoe was a successful advertiser. He wanted a ship—help.
He improvised an "ad"—his shirt hung from a pole stuck in the sand of the island where he and Friday had been marooned.

The circulation and pulling power of the frayed "ad" were small—there was no other medium—but Crusoe kept at it, despite the fact he got no inquiries for a long time.
He changed his "copy"—as one arrangement after another was shipped to shreds. In the end he got what he wanted—a ship.

Crusoe demonstrated the value of sustained advertising. He didn't kick over the pole, guess Friday and sit down to wait for nature to take its course, just because he didn't get results right off the bat.

"How do you like living in a hat?"
"First rate, old boy. Every time my wife has company I have to go out to make room."

Even when some birds give you something for nothing and you take it you get the worst of it.

We noticed the other day where three hundred people slept in a theatre. We felt like doing that many times ourselves.

"Nigguh, short yeh dollar, and give is a little Ford action."
"Bag, what de you-all mean by Ford action?"
"Shake, rattle, and roll, nigguh:
snake, cattle and roll."

We got considerable mountain climbing looking after our trunks at the depot.

In money raising campaigns the only thing that really counts is the coin. Giving loud and vociferous cheers help little. Giving a promise to pay and then not paying is another form of bull that counts for nothing. Keep the cheers for the Fourth of July and give the coin if you really want to boost.

factured by the Universal Road Machinery Company of this city is now being extensively used by the state highway departments of New York and Pennsylvania in the automatic inspection of new concrete and bituminous roads.

This machine which is attached to an automobile accurately records all depressions and elevations of the road surface as well as the mileage and permits the operator to make marginal notes as he drives along.
The device permits a thorough in-

BUSINESS TO USE OLD BUILDING AT THE HEBREW SCHOOL

Masons and carpenters are busily engaged converting the large frame building at 744 Broadway, near St. James street, into a business structure. The plaza has been torn away from the front and the lower floor, which was raised, will be on the street level. There will be two stories installed. The building, which is owned by Louis Bruders, was built many years ago by Dr. Margoshes, who later erected the large brick building at the corner of St. James street and Broadway. After the Civil War it was owned by John Krauser, who had a saloon and billiard table on which the young men who went to the Kingston Academy not far away used to go at all hours of the day and there learned to play billiards, among them the late Dr. Davis, who became an expert one-hundred yard runner in the world for many years. George Seider, succeeded the Krauser ownership and also conducted a saloon there, and in later years it was run as a rooming house.

SCHENECTADY HERE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Local Quintet is Now Tied for First Place—Friday Night Morgentau Five Journeys to Amsterdam.

Contests for the second week of the season in the New York State Basketball League will be staged this week. Results for the first week are very encouraging on the part of the local representatives as they are tied for the first position with Troy, both teams winning both their contests. Kingston downed Cohoes at the local armory court on Wednesday evening and on Friday beat Albany at the latter's court. Schenectady is the attraction for the home game this Wednesday evening and if the local players have the same team work that they displayed in their former games, success is assured them. On Friday night Kingston will travel to Amsterdam.

The standing of the teams follows:

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Troy	3	0	1.000
Kingston	2	0	1.000
Cohoes	1	1	.500
Schenectady	1	1	.500
Albany	0	2	.000
Amsterdam	0	2	.000

RESIGNS PULPIT AT RHINEBECK

The Rev. H. W. Sherwood, who has for seventeen years pastored of the Wurts Street Baptist Church in this city, presented his resignation as pastor of the Baptist Church of Rhinebeck at the morning service last Sunday. His resignation to take effect the last of November, the close of his pastoral year. In resigning Mr. Sherwood suggested to the congregation that they endeavor to cooperate with some of the other churches in the village and hold union services during the winter so as to help meet the fuel shortage which confronts them at the present time. Two years ago Mr. Sherwood bought a home at Rhinebeck with the ostensible purpose of retiring from the active ministry but as the Baptist church was at that time without a pastor he was induced to take charge of their work.

THE CURRENT WEEK AT ALBANY AVE. BAPTIST CHURCH

This week will be a busy one at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church. On Tuesday evening at 6:45 o'clock the men of the church and congregation will have a dinner, followed by a short address and discussion. All men are urged to be present on this occasion.

Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock the Junior Christian Endeavor Society will hold its semi-annual election of officers followed by a Halcyon social. All boys and girls are urged to join are invited to come.

Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock will be the prayer and covenant meeting led by the pastor. The topic will be "The Meaning of Baptism."

On Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock the regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society will be held at the home of Mrs. Grover C. Baker, 77 Lucia avenue. Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Hull are the features. The program follows: Prayers, Mrs. D. B. Hendricks. Lesson, Mrs. Vernon Hull. Biography of Harry T. Burleigh. Mrs. Frank S. Brickham. Current Events, Mrs. George B. Styles, Jr. Music, Mrs. E. H. Hull.

This week the members will bring another warm clothing of every description to tend to Russia, where there is great need. The Baptists of the United States will send a "ship of fellowship" filled with clothing and blankets for those who are suffering. All garments must be sent in this week, either to the church or the parsonage, or to the home of Mrs. E. P. Snyder, 116 Elmhurst street.

SHOKAN.

Shokan, Oct. 30.—Every member is requested to be present at the monthly meeting of the Shokan Ladies Aid Society which meets at the home of Mrs. N. R. Windrum, November 1 at 2:30.

NEW PRINCIPAL AT THE HEBREW SCHOOL

A new principal was installed at the Kingston Hebrew School today. He is Dr. S. Margoshes of New York. He was born in 1887 and received his education in the United States, Germany and France. Graduating from the College of the City of New York he entered the Jewish Theological Seminary of America and Columbia University and received the degree of Rabbi of Jewish Theological Seminary in 1911 and that of Doctor of Philosophy from Columbia University in 1912. He continued his studies abroad, attending the universities at Heidelberg and Paris. Dr. Margoshes was connected with the Bureau of Education as the chief of the text book department and during the war served with the Jewish Welfare Board as director of educational activities. After the armistice he left for Europe on an extended study trip that took him to most of the war-stricken countries of central and eastern Europe. Last year, Dr. Margoshes toured Canada as propagandist of the Zionist organization of Canada.

KING CONFERS WITH MUSSOLINI

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Rome, Oct. 30.—Deputy Benito Mussolini, spokesman for the Fascist in parliament, and the dominant force in the new Italian government, arrived here today and immediately conferred with King Victor Emmanuel upon the personnel of the new cabinet. Members of the Fascist will hold the most important portfolios.

In a speech just after his arrival Deputy Mussolini urged the people to keep calm and refrain from violence.

The city has remained quiet. Large forces of armed Fascists are encamped just outside the city.

IS PARADISE OF "RATTLERS"

Pushing Out of Razorback Hog Responsible for Multitude of Snakes in North Carolina.

The mountainous sections of North Carolina are great breeding places for snakes and some of the regions are now inclosed in national forest areas. Twenty years ago rattlesnakes were quite scarce in the North Carolina mountains. Those were the days when razorback hogs, one of the greatest of snake exterminators, were a formidable part of the state's porcine population.

Then along came George W. Vanderbilt, who purchased 30,000 acres of this mountainous country and fenced it, driving out the razorbacks and permitting the brush to grow. The Toxus was company followed Mr. Vanderbilt, acquiring 30,000 acres adjoining his holdings.

The exodus of razorbacks from so large an area has resulted in a remarkable increase of rattlesnakes. North Carolinians declare that there were never so many in their state as now.

Forestry service men in newly acquired areas in North Carolina and other southern states have reported the presence of a tremendous number of rattlers. One Washington official, who was in North Carolina looking over a piece of forest, sat down on a log to rest a moment and discovered that he had barely missed sitting squarely on a rattler. He jumped up with a yell, only to find several others viewing him with obvious interest.

In the forests of the Southwest the thing feared by forest officers and natives even more than the rattlesnake is the hydrophobia skunk. This is a small species of skunk that terrorizes the district in which it flourishes. To be bitten by one means, it is said, hydrophobia, unless the patient can reach a Pasteur hospital quickly.

GOLD ONLY IN BOY'S MIND

British Villagers the Victims of Hoax Which They Are Only Too Willing to Forget.

The treasure hunt of the villagers of Darvel, Ayrshire, Scotland, was prompted by a boy's hoax. Some days ago a piece of paper was found containing a message in faded writing to the effect that many years ago the writer had buried a vast hoard of gold in the vicinity of the town. The exact spot would be found indicated on a chart which, it was stated, was concealed in a cranny of an old bridge.

After a minute search some young men came across the chart, and soon an immense crowd of men and women, armed with picks and shovels and other implements, were feverishly digging in an old quarry near the town, this being the spot indicated on the chart. The work continued a whole day, but late in the evening, just when every one was on the tip of excitement, they received a great shock. A message was received that the story of the hidden treasure had originated with a boy who prepared the papers, browned them before a fire to make them look old, and then hid them. He was well satisfied with his joke.

A WARM WRAP FOR MOTORING

For motoring and under all conditions when durability is required, nothing takes the place of the raccoon fur coat.

PREFER LONG-HAIRED FURS

Wolf Trimming and Similar Peltry Hold Favor; Beaver and Squirrel Collars Shown.

There is a modified way of handling the voluminous lines of the new season that give grace and real comfort to the wearer of such coats, bought, first of all, from a practical standpoint. One manufacturer has made wearability his first consideration, and in doing so has designed some smart and popular numbers.

A preference is given to wolf trimmings and long-haired furs, although beaver and squirrel collars are, of course, included in the showing. Black ormandale has been used in fashioning one very opulent-looking model that is trimmed with platinum wolf. Wide mandarin sleeves make a nice complement to its full back and tailored braiding defining the sleeve section from the back is a clever means of accenting their fullness.

This model is typical of a group of coats showing varied sleeve treatments and brand uses that are smart. The use of a raccoon collar on a coat of ormandale is one of the particularly novel notes introduced in the fur-trimmed styles. Untrimmed ormandale and bolivia numbers are an interesting part of the showing, and in these models the beauty of the cheap pile fabrics seem most pronounced.

Jenny sleeves and a Jenny neckline are most aptly used on one of these untrimmed coats. Smart collars edged with silk fringe and a modified leg-of-mutton sleeve are introduced on another coat that shows a circular fullness. Chenille tassels of large dimensions drape from the sleeves and form a rather handsome ornament. Among other features to be noted as particularly smart is the pouched sleeve gathered into a cuff. This hints of a peasant influence and has a decidedly youthful effect.

FANS THAT MATCH THE DRESS

Novelties of Coque in Delightful Colors, Black Net Lace, to Accompany Evening Gowns.

Novelty fans of coque in the most delightful colors are mounted on sticks of carved galloway and tortoise-shell. Those made of black and red coque feathers are particularly effective. However, these might be considered extreme by the woman who wears conservative clothes.

Black net or lace fans to match evening dresses are smart. Among this type now shown are some that might quite well have been chosen by those exacting Spanish beauties who were never without one of these romantic bits of femininity.

A chantly lace fan, in order to correspond with the dress, may have the design of the lace accentuated either by needlework or by hand painting the design in colors, and metallic effects.

As an accompaniment to the evening dress of plain-colored silk there are fans made of a succession of silk petals, and petals mounted on frames of carved ivory or amber, according to the color of the silk used. These fans may be had in almost every color imaginable. Some have ostrich feathers in a contrasting color scattered among the petals. For instance, one made of purple petals has yellow ostrich feathers, while another, of pearl gray, has the ostrich in rose color. These are made up in both small and large dimensions, the smaller ones being particularly adaptable to the young girl.

A New Style Point.

One of the style points emphasized by models shown by one importer is the dropped shoulder accompanied by a broad, loose, underarm movement. This idea is especially featured in coats and suits, and particularly the jacketette, which is hailed as a mode extraordinaire.

Porcelain Made by Accident.

A potter, experimenting with various earths in an attempt to find a mixture which would stand continual heat, discovered porcelain, while an optician's boy whilst mending glasses thought out the arrangement and uses of lenses for telescopes.

KINGSTON, N. Y., OCT. 30, 1922.

There was no good for newspapers to publish the fact that Mr. Gompers had come out for the Democratic candidates. He always does, and there is no particular news in his action.

It is noteworthy that a 16-year-old sophomore of the Bridgeport, Conn., high school mentioned among the causes of his suicide the depressing effect of the fiction he read. Many youths of both sexes are now constantly reading decadent, pessimistic and disillusioning literature which their elders, experienced in the troubles of real life, would in most cases turn from with a shudder.

Although nine-tenths of the women's organizations are reported to be against the proposed constitutional amendment sweeping away all the legal distinctions between men and women, Alice Paul, leader of the National Woman's Party, stands for it like a rock. She cares nothing for the special privileges of many kinds which most women need and which would lose, desiring only the deceptively empty and even disastrous triumph of technical "equality."

The United States and Canada have lived in amicable relations for more than a century under a treaty forbidding fortification of the international boundary. The reported plan for a revision of the agreement makes no material change, merely providing that each nation may keep a few armored vessels of police type on the Great Lakes while excluding from the boundary waters real warships. The object in view seems to be a modernization of the old treaty.

PIRACY.

"To my mind this is an act of piracy," said Federal Judge Hand in New York, referring to happenings in connection with a seizure by our "dry" navy which is said not to be the first of its kind. It seems there was complaint not merely of seizure of a vessel flying a foreign flag but of personal robbery. Two British captains and a supercargo were suing before Judge Hand to recover money, valuables and personal effects taken from them by prohibition agents off the New Jersey coast. One of the captains testified that these "official thieves" took not only his money, his clothing and other personal effects but the key to his house in Nova Scotia. Judge Hand is right; piracy is the only word for such outrages as these. If the British sailors were robbed in this way by the American government agents seizing their ship, Uncle Sam has been made to figure in an altogether new as well as amazing role—that of sea bandit.

Foreign nations may charitably explain this astonishing news on the ground of an exceptional act of reckless subordinates, and probably they find it less amazing than our Attorney-General's official declaration of a purpose to carry a domestic prohibition law into foreign bottoms on the high seas.

A GROWING MENACE.

Whether there be much or little in (Mrs.) Senator Felton's charge that the Ku Klux Klan ran the Senatorial primary in Georgia, whether there were other reasons for Governor Hardwick's defeat more important than his fight on Klan muck, it is unquestionable that in many States the "invisible empire" is endeavoring to live up to that description of its powers and to enter politics as a controlling factor. It stands to reason that in seeking to elect candidates the Klan purposes to dominate them afterward. Like the Anti-Saloon League and other powerful lobbying associations, the Klan is aiming so far as possible to take the government out of the hands of the people's duly elected representatives. Indeed, the Klan bids fair to become even more of a menace in this particular than such dominating associations as the Anti-Saloon League because the latter restricts its attempted control to a single field. No argument is needed to show that this growing tendency toward government from the outside—through dictation to the people's representative by powerful organizations—is a public menace pointing toward, if not the destruction of our form of government, at least its emasculation, inevitable incompetence and virtual impotence. There is not now in sight a danger to American institutions equally in importance this growing power of lobbying organizations, and to the strength of the others the Ku Klux Klan adds the portentous power residing in its ability to strike in the secrecy of disguise and inflict even bodily injury.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, or enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. What should I feed quail to keep them around my place this winter? I want those we have now to stay.
2. Can minks be domesticated?
3. Which is the deadliest snake, the fer-de-lance cobra, or diamond backed rattlesnake?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Which are our smallest birds? The ruby-throated humming bird is the pigmy, under 4 inches; following close is golden-crowned kinglet, 4 inches, and ruby-crowned kinglet slightly over 4 inches. Some specimens of red-breasted nuthatch are only 4 1/2 inches.

2. Are there any albino snakes? We never happened to see one, but know of at least one recorded case, observed by the Curator of Reptiles, New York Zoological Park. Three albinos were found in a litter of common garter snakes, the eyes, pink, and the bodies translucent when held up to the light. Another abnormality in this same litter was a two-headed specimen of ordinary coloring. It died promptly, but the albinos lasted some weeks.

3. Kindly tell me how to take care of baby night moths. What do they feed on up to the time they make their cocoons. I have about a hundred eggs but do not know how to take care of them after they hatch.

We can't tell you what food to try as we have no idea what variety of moth you mean. The kind of growth on which you found the eggs should be a guide as to the foliage they will require, as the female lays her eggs in situations that will at once afford the hatching worms food. The worms will need plenty of fresh green leaves, of whatever variety you find they will take. Better be sure you are not hatching out gipsy or brown tail moths.

SUBJECT OF HARVEY'S JUST CHOSEN, SAYS RABBI

At the services Friday evening at Temple Emanuel, the Rev. Bernard M. Kaplan expressed surprise at the speech of Colonel Harvey before the Author's Club in London in which the ambassador referred disrespectfully to the Ten Commandments and other teachings of the Bible, which, as Andrew Jackson said, "is the Rock on Which Our Republic Rests." Dr. Kaplan also quoted another great American, Thomas Jefferson, the author of the Declaration of Independence, who remarked that the careful study of the Bible makes us better citizens. "What makes the American Republic so great?" said the rabbi, "is its respect for law and order as inspired by the teachings of the Bible. The imperative 'Thou Shalt Not' of the Ten Commandments applies to both men and women as the expression 'All men are created equal' in the Declaration of Independence applies to both sexes."

Colonel Harvey, said Dr. Kaplan, may have spoken in jest, but such jest is contrary to the American sense of humor which is discriminative and discreet.

Don't Forget Your Sweet Tooth

It's your daily inducement to eat more of your best food.

Sugar is your gilt-edged invitation, issued three times each day, urging you to eat Bread.

The value of this quality cannot be overestimated, for it makes possible the ability to eat Bread three times a day, every day in the year, without ever tiring of it.

The appetizing temptation of the crisp, brown crust is the direct effect of sugar, and the sweetness of the sunshine that ripens the sugar cane is in the delicious flavor of the loaf.

Sugar is just one of the reasons why Bread produces abounding energy and endurance, the mainspring of health and happiness.

MRS. SALZMANN'S MOTHER'S BREAD contains cane sugar, pure and refined, in just the right amount to make you want to eat more today than yesterday, for increased energy creates a greater appetite for nourishing, wholesome food—the Best there is—which only White Bread can supply.

Writers' Belief in Plant Virtue.
The doctrine of signatures was preached by William Cole in his "Art of Simpling" in 1626 and by Ferriar in 1790. These writers believed in the virtues of plants, and in certain external appearances, supposed to have been impressed on them by guardian angels. Thus the spotted leaves of lungwort were supposed to indicate its efficacy in curing diseases of the lungs and the shape of the wad to show that it was good for affections of the head. Plants were supposed to be under the influence of the sun, the moon, and the planets and to possess virtue in accordance with their relative position at the time they were gathered, to the heavenly body which ruled them.

How It Looked

GRADE CROSSING IS ORDERED

Hobart Authorized to Extend Street Across C. & D. Tracks—Underground or Overhead Not Justified.

By a decision to this effect the Albany Co. 30—The public service commission Saturday directed that Railroad avenue be extended by the board of trustees in Hobart Delaware county shall cross the Ulster & Delaware Railroad tracks at the existing grade. The commission further directs that the roadway shall be not less than 16 feet wide and paved on each side of the railroad or otherwise surfaced in a manner satisfactory to the commission. The commission holds that the proceedings heretofore had in the matter of the extension of Railroad avenue were legal and proper. It also finds that an underground crossing is impractical on account of drainage conditions, and that an overgrade crossing while possible from an engineering standpoint would be equally impractical on account of the prohibitive cost. The commission further finds that if a crossing were established at grade it would mean that there would not be an additional crossing but the opening of the new Railroad avenue crossing would mean the abandonment of the present Creamery crossing a private right of way which has been considered dangerous and a source of annoyance to the public because of the fact that it is impassable at certain times. The new Railroad avenue crossing as ordered by the commission believes will be a safe, more convenient and serviceable substitute than the existing crossing of the Ulster and Delaware tracks.

Edward L. Chapin, of New York, is the only surviving member of the One Hundred and Tenth New York Volunteers of the Civil War. He is still hale and hearty at eighty-three. In 1862 he made the prophecy he would live until the One Hundred and Tenth was gone. The funeral of Captain J. H. Huntington of Mexico, N. Y., fulfilled his prophecy.

Oklahoma.
Oklahoma had its beginnings eighty-eight years ago, when Indian territory was formed as a permanent home for the redskins. The Cherokees were removed to the future prosperous state in 1835 and were soon followed by the Choctaws, Creeks, Chickasaws and Seminoles. The five constituted the Five Civilized Tribes. Many of their descendants have become wealthy and influential citizens. In addition to the "five civilized tribes" other Indians were given lands in the territory. In 1866 the Creeks ceded the western part of their territory and the Seminoles, all of theirs to the United States and these were incorporated with No Man's land in the territory of Oklahoma. Indian territory maintained a separate government under its original form until 1906 when it was incorporated with Oklahoma and admitted as a state of the Union.

Famous Greenwood Cemetery
Greenwood cemetery in Brooklyn comprising 475 acres was opened in 1840 and since that time more than 200,000 burials have been made in it. Its control is vested in a board of public trustees who have for its maintenance a fund of nearly $1,000,000. Among the noted monuments in Greenwood cemetery are those erected in memory of Horace Greeley, James Gordon Bennett, John Matthews the Brown brothers, S. T. B. Morse, Mary M. Danvers, Charlotte Canda, Captain Corraja and A. S. Scribner. The Soldiers' monument, the Firemen's monument, the Brooklyn Theater monument, the Pilot monument and the bronze statue of DeWitt Clinton are also worthy of notice.

Human Mechanism.
Where can we find a pump as perfect as the human heart? If the body treats it right, it stays on the job for more than 600,000 hours making 4,320 strokes and pumping 15 gallons an hour in the course of an average lifetime the heart pumps 9,000,000 gallons and makes 2,500,000,000 strokes. Floyd W. Parsons in the World's Work says: "We have no telegraphic mechanism equal to that comprised in our nervous system; no wireless apparatus, so efficient as the voice and the ear, no moving-picture machine or other type of camera so perfect as the human eye; no ventilating plant so wonderful as the nose, lungs, and skin, and no electrical switchboard can compare with the spinal cord."

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

EARLY MORNING

It was very, very early in the morning. Daylight had just arrived after having had quite a chat with the Night. For a time it had seemed as though neither of them would decide which would stay around, but at last Night had left and Daylight had really remained.

Then Mr. Sun began to show that he was getting ready to arise behind his bedroom hill. While he was getting ready the Dew Fairies were getting ready, too. For a while Mr. Sun looked bright and full of color and then he looked pale and almost like the moon, for the clouds of mist seemed to cover him for a time and he could only just be seen.

And then he began travelling down along the mountain tops. Before long the clouds of mist left the fields and the Dew Fairies had a party, and after a time they, too, left, for Mr. Sun was much too interested in their playing!

A little rabbit came out along the fields and sat beside the roadside to see what was going on but at the first sign of a wagon he hurried back again, for, though he was full of curiosity, he wasn't going to take any chances.

How he did scurry away and how bright and interested he had appeared in what was going on but a moment before.

Some of the cows were sitting in their stalls waiting for milking time, others were in the fields.

The birds were flying about. A number of robins were talking of the excellent market place in a lawn not far away.

"Plenty of good worms for all of us," they chirped. "A most excellent market."

A family of crows found a field which seemed to them to be just right, and other birds flew about in the early morning, chatting, chirping, singing, talking, full of their plans.

There were American robins and red-winged blackbirds. There were goldfinches and bluebirds and indigo birds and bobolinks, too. And how bright and gay the early morning did seem with all these beautiful, bright, gay birds flying about.

On some of the porches watch dogs slept with an eye open to be ready to jump up if danger came near. Oh, yes, they were right on the alert.

Many a rushing, sparkling little brook cheerily ran over pebbles and stones chatting of the fun it was to be a clear, rushing brook.

"You see," said one of the robins, "later on the people will be about—it will not take long for them to be getting up, and some of them are already getting up."

"And while it is the early, early morning, we are about, for it is our very own time of the day."

"The birds all feel that this is their time of the day and so that is why they seem to be about more in the early, early morning than at any other time. There are so many to be seen now, and how bright their wings and feathers do look and how fresh and lively the whole world seems now."

"People do not like it when it is so early. They are sleepy and they feel it so chilly and damp. They like it better when Mr. Sun warms things more and when they can forget that so short a time before it was chilly."

"But we love the early, early morning. It is our time. Yes, the early morning is the time of the crows and the birds and of many of Nature's creatures."

"Let the world sleep, but we will be up, enjoying the time of the day that is our very, very own."

And the crows smiled in their covey, the birds chirped and sang and shouted with joy over some of their morning discoveries, while Mr. Sun shone brighter and harder until the people about began to get up.

But Nature's children had had their time during the sparkling, dazzling, damp, still, quiet, early morning when they could make whatever noise there was when it would not be drowned out by noises made by humans and machinery!

"A Most Excellent Market."

"Let the world sleep, but we will be up, enjoying the time of the day that is our very, very own."

And the crows smiled in their covey, the birds chirped and sang and shouted with joy over some of their morning discoveries, while Mr. Sun shone brighter and harder until the people about began to get up.

But Nature's children had had their time during the sparkling, dazzling, damp, still, quiet, early morning when they could make whatever noise there was when it would not be drowned out by noises made by humans and machinery!

THE KITCHEN CABINET

The old moon lies in the new moon's arms, the short of a bubble in a saucer of gold, the white shingles shimmer in the sunset glow, the shadowed mountain shoulders rise up to meet the evening star. Low in the east Orion steps with lifted foot into the game fields of the sky.—Walter P. Eaton

GOOD, ECONOMICAL DISHES

Meat cooked in a casserole may be tender and fine-flavored even if from the cheaper cuts.

Casserole of Chuck Steak.—Cut a slice of two of chuck at least two inches thick and large enough to fit the casserole. Brown well in a little fried-out short, place in the casserole with enough hot water, meat or vegetable stock to cover. Cover closely and simmer until tender. At the end of that time add six small onions, a few carrots sliced and enough small potatoes to serve the family; continue cooking until the vegetables are tender. Thicken the gravy and serve from the casserole or arrange on a platter.

China Chole.—Take two pounds of the neck of lamb, cut into small pieces. Soak one cupful of dried beans overnight, drain, add the beans, one head of lettuce shredded, two sliced onions, salt and pepper to season and two cupfuls of boiling water. Simmer until the meat is tender—about three hours.

Graham Bread.—Take one-third of a cupful of sugar, one-fourth of a cupful of fat melted, mix and add one and one-half cupfuls of sour milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt and three-fourths of a teaspoonful of soda, one-half cupful of white flour, two cupfuls of graham flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Beat well and bake in a well-oiled bread pan for fifty minutes.

Bran Bread.—Mix two cupfuls each of bran and white flour, one teaspoonful of salt, one and one-half cupfuls of milk, five teaspoonfuls of baking powder, four tablespoonfuls of sugar and one-half cupful of raisins. Steam in a covered coffee can for three hours.

Plain Meringues.—Beat four egg whites until dry, add one and one-half cupfuls of granulated sugar very slowly. Cover a board with writing paper and drop the meringues upon this in any desired form. Sprinkle with finely shredded almonds and bake in a very slow oven for forty-five minutes.

Ancient Welsh Customs.

The Welsh girl gives her lover a birchen branch as a token that she accepts him. In Wales, too, the Maypole about which the villagers danced and played joyous games was always a birch. Thus the "bederen" was a permanent feature of the village green, and the greatest game of all was to steal the bederen. This, when accomplished, was celebrated with peculiar festivities. Possibly out of these midnight marauding expeditions and their accompanying festivities came the superstition that on Walpurgis night—the eve of May day—witches and warlocks hold high carnival.

What They Cost

What does it cost to feed a child?
Sometimes little, sometimes much. That depends on the food they get.

The premier food for a child is oats, you know. Mothers for ages have known that.

And the finest oats that grow—just the cream of fine oats—cost less than a cent a dish.

Food value is measured by calories.

One Mother's Oats, 1,000 calories cost 5 cents.

One 1,000 calories, in the average meat dish, cost ten times that.

Those are reasons for serving Mother's Oats.

They are called Mother's Oats because children love the flavor.

Insist on this quality—make the oat dish delightful—if you believe in oats.

MOTHER'S OATS

The luxury dish—large, luscious flakes.
Made for mothers who want children to love oats.

THEFT, DRUNKS AND OTHER CASES

Judge Groves Held a Busy Session in Police Court—One Negro Stole and Sold Clothes of Two Pals—Sunday Evidently Was a Wet Day in Kingston.

Saturday morning Hayes Williams and Philip Rogers, two negroes employed at the Schultz brickyard, called to see Assistant District Attorney Frank W. Brooks and swore out a warrant for the arrest of Jess Howard, another negro, who they charged with stealing a suit case and two suits of clothes.

The negroes said they had found the suits in the store of Abraham Ribet at No. 55 East Strand, and a search warrant was issued and served that afternoon by Police Sergeant Hanley, and the clothing recovered.

This morning there was a return made on the search warrant. Mr. Ribet failed to appear. Mr. Brooks appeared for Williams and Rogers, who identified the suit case and the clothing which was turned over to them with the exception of one coat. Rogers said that the pants that went with the coat were his, but that Jess Howard had evidently swapped coats with some one else. The coat was left in the possession of the court.

Sunday several drunks were arrested. Joe Radaskie who was picked up on Ferry street by Special Officer Ellsworth on a charge of public intoxication had his hearing adjourned to Tuesday.

Lester Marrie, a brickyard employee, picked up on Foxhall avenue by Officers Burger and Van Buren, pleaded guilty and was fined $5 for being drunk.

Tad Wells, helplessly drunk at Strand and Broadway, entered a plea of not guilty and furnished cash bail in the sum of $10 for his appearance Tuesday. He was arrested by Officer Sachoff.

Ray Green of West Park was arrested by Officer Kerosman on a charge of being drunk and trying to run an auto on lower Broadway. He was fined $5 and warned not to attempt to run a car while intoxicated.

J. W. Campbell of Newburgh who passed a bad check for $5 on William Dohnken, a local taxi man, made restitution, and the charge was withdrawn and Campbell discharged.

Several boys from Wilbur were before Judge Groves in his private office. They had been summoned to explain why they tied the tails of two cats together and hung them over the door knob on the house of a Wilbur resident. They were not arrested but warned to leave the Wilbur resident alone in the future.

NOT EASY TO TRACE ROSARY

Probabilities, However, Are That It First Was Brought Into Use in Arabia or Egypt.

It is not at all likely, I think, that the use of prayer beads originated in Arabia or Egypt. It is to India that we must go for the home of this religious device—India, "the mother of religions," the land where the gods outnumber the people and where the people carry their zeal to the point of intoxication. There is convincing evidence that the rosary existed in India long before it appeared in other parts of the world. At some remote period when the Vedas were still in vogue, the circle of jewels or beads arose as a means of promoting meditation and registering meritorious acts. It may be seen in multifarious coils about the necks of the gurus of today. Cornelius H. Patton writes in Asia Magazine:

Starting from India, we may clearly trace the spread of the rosary to the Buddhists of Ceylon, Burma and Siam, known as the Southern school, and especially to Tibet, where in Lamaism the faith of Gautama reached its lowest level, and where the rosary, along with other customs, spread to China, Korea and Japan.

The Mohammedans may easily have taken over the rosary through their contacts with India, or else, as seems more likely, they learned its use from hermits and monks of the Eastern or Greek church through their earlier contacts in Palestine, Syria and northern Africa. The oriental Christians, in turn may have taken over the device from the Indians by way of Persia and the caravan routes of the East. If we could say with certainty that the Roman church borrowed the idea from the successors of Mahomet during the Crusades, the claim of development would be logical and complete.

We must not rule out, however, the possibility that this aid to prayer sprang up spontaneously in different parts of the earth, under the pressure of the need of the human heart, everywhere the same. My own opinion was adopted both imitatively and spontaneously. Throughout the Buddhist world it was clearly copied from India. In the Christian and Moslem, median worlds it appears to have had an independent origin, but to have owed somewhat to the borrowing process incident to travel and trade.

Memories.

Alas and alas! How little we know what may stir our children's children. How little we know what simple thing may be our own memorial years hence. It may be a tall elm that we planted in the dooryard, a peony bloom by the garden path. Sufficient it, in some later day, when we are gone and nigh forgotten, some one stirs vagrant memories by recalling us through the simple flower; or stops, in June, to look deep into the heart of the peony; to see, once again, the visions of the old homes and old family circles which time has dissolved, leaving only the perennial of beauty in the flower and in the hearts of children and of children's children.—New York Tribune.

John P. Edgeworth, of Chicago, eighty-one years young, wooed Mrs. Mary Ada Small with youthful vigor, telling her he had an income of something like $100,000 a year, though he couldn't be exact because his secretary attended to petty details like that. Later his ardor cooled, and he went to St. Louis, where she followed him. Then he went to California, with her on his trail. There she got a judgment of $20,000 for breach of promise. He didn't pay, and she had him jailed in Chicago, where it was discovered his $100,000 income amounted in real money to $40 a week. He has a pension of $12 a week out of which to pay her $20,000.

WOMEN'S CLUB FEDERATION MET

28th State Convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs held earlier in the month in New York city. Mrs. Rice's report is as follows:

The 28th Annual Convention of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs met at Hotel Commodore, New York city, October 28th to 31st.

The first business session of the convention was called to order Tuesday morning by the president, Mrs. Walter Seaman Courly.

There were addresses of welcome by Mrs. Edward H. Maynard, chairman of the ninth district, which was the host of the convention, Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Health Commissioner of New York, Charles L. Craig, city controller, representing Mayor Hylan and others.

Specimens of the work of the clubs of today were revealed in the reports of the nine district chairmen. Everything from adopting French orphans and selling poppies for the wounded soldiers to influencing the course of legislation at Albany was recorded to the club women's credit.

One of the most important reports was that of Miss Ida J. Butcher of Utica, chairman of the scholarship committee. She recommended that the federation give two scholarships this year. One to a senior at Vassar College, who has received aid from the fund previously. Nine girls have received gifts from the scholarship fund, the number being small, according to Miss Butcher, because it is the custom of the organization to "see the girls through" and to continue to give aid to one girl throughout the entire college course rather than to several girls for briefer periods.

The committees on art, music and literature presented the evening's program. Royal Cortissoy, art editor of the New York Tribune in his address "Sanity in Art" made an appeal for the cooperation of club members in supporting good art and attacking poor. "It is the duty," he said, "of women in clubs who exercise a great influence in the community to make those people anxious to take up with new facts in art, prove that these facts really are art."

Mrs. Eugene J. Grant, state chairman of music presented Mrs. Henry Hadley, who spoke on "The Progress of Music in America," and Robert C. Ladd, who gave a convincing talk on "The Value of a Municipal Music Center."

Music played an important part in the program of the convention, each session opening and closing with community singing while solos and choruses by trained musicians were given for our pleasure.

The chairman of literature, Mrs. Francis H. Lamon, introduced Alfred W. Martin of "The Society of Ethical Culture," whose topic was "The Tragedy of Unfulfilled Power." To illustrate his theme, Mr. Martin used Robert Browning's poem "Andrea Del Sarto."

The reading of original poems by Louise Driscoll, chairman of poetry, Margaret Wilder, and Alfred Guterman completed Tuesday evening's program.

Consideration of citizenship, Americanization, motion pictures, recreation and legislation occupied Wednesday morning's session. The question of censorship of motion pictures, books and plays brought forth lively discussion. No action, however, was taken.

Wednesday afternoon was "playtime." A motor trip through Westchester county, a tour of the city institutions, a visit to the municipal parks and playgrounds, a trip to the Metropolitan Museum of Art and to J. P. Herder, Caricature, recording the children's museum in Brooklyn, Secretary, Mrs. R. O. Schlender, a luncheon on board the American Sheridan, Mrs. Charles H. North, Plattsburgh, entered for the choice of the visitors. The evening program was devoted to welfare topics. One of the finest addresses of the convention was given by Dr. George E. Vincent, of the Rockefeller Foundation, New York, his subject being "Community Health."

Thursday, besides being a day with a very full program was also election day. After the report of the resolutions committee, the federation voted to cooperate with the state department of health in its program to aid mothers and children as established by the "Davenport Bill." They also voted for the establishment of kindergartens in rural communities and for the payment of women prisoners in state institutions.

Following considerable discussion the convention adopted a resolution in favor of the taxing and regulating of bill boards by the state in order to prevent their being placed where they account architectural or scenic beauty. This resolution is identical with that passed by the "General Federation" last June, and will be presented during the winter to every state federation in an effort to organize the entire strength of the club women of the country behind the bill board movement.

The convention voted unanimously to have copies printed of last year's resolution in favor of law enforcement to show that the federation stands where it did then.

The federation went on record as being unalterably opposed to the return of light wines and beer, through either state or national legislation. Two other resolutions were presented and passed, one advocated barring fraternities and sororities from high schools, the other in favor of direct primaries.

The convention recommended for the study of its clubs "The Fundamentals of Citizenship," "The Causes of Industrial Disturbances," and "The Foundation of Boards of Mediation."

A vigorous attack on welfare legislation was made by Miss Mary L. Wood, chairman of the legislative committee of both the general federation and the New York State Federation. Miss Wood took a firm stand against what she called "unintelligent welfare measures."

The convention went "over the top" when the president called for the pledges from the clubs to the general federation house at Washington, D. C. The $2,500 necessary to complete New York state quota of $10,000 was soon subscribed and there were still a number of clubs to report.

Thursday evening "Federation Week" was presented in a series of tableaux showing "Motherhood," "The Foundation of the Nation," "Community Service" and "International Peace."

Mrs. Thomas G. Winter of Minneapolis, Minn., president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and a member of the advisory board of the conference on the "Limitation of Armaments," addressed the meeting, taking as her subject "This Slowing World." After urging the women to watch the trend of world relations she gave praise to the modern girl. Mrs. Winter said "The young people of today are enjoying life from freedom toward which ages of history have been working. This heritage of freedom has to be paid for by responsibility and self control. Everything that is more having must be paid for, the more worth the having, the higher the price."

The results of the election were announced by the president at the business session Friday morning. They were: President, Mrs. John H. Booth, Plattsburgh; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Charles Dickinson, Binghamton; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. William H. Purdy, Mt. Vernon; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. B. G. Tracy, New York; 4th vice-president, Mrs. Charles Metropolitan Museum of Art and to J. P. Herder, Caricature, recording the children's museum in Brooklyn, Secretary, Mrs. R. O. Schlender, a luncheon on board the American Sheridan, Mrs. Charles H. North, Plattsburgh, entered for the choice of the visitors. The evening program was devoted to welfare topics. One of the finest addresses of the convention was given by Dr. George E. Vincent, of the Rockefeller Foundation, New York, his subject being "Community Health."

The New York State Federation limits the term of its officers to two years, and it is the custom for each president of the organization, when she takes office to select some one line of activity to be stressed throughout her administration. The present president, Mrs. Courly, has emphasized community service work. Mrs. Booth, the new president is especially interested in international relations and citizenship, and announced her intention of adding a new department on "International Relations" in conformity with that newly established by the general federation of women's clubs.

The women's club movement is just coming into its own. Miss Mary Garrett Hay told the delegates to the convention of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs meeting yesterday at the Hotel Commodore. As one of the former presidents of the organization, Miss Hay warned the women that they must not permit those ignorant of club work to say that the clubs were dying out with the advent of women into political life.

"I was told just a short time ago," she said, "that the clubs had outlived their usefulness and would soon be extinct. This is not true. We are not losing our grip, but are doing better work than ever before. The clubs taught women tolerance of one another, and through their women of different beliefs and of a different outlook on life learned to study both sides of a question and to work together in spite of their differences."

"This mutual tolerance and this ability for cooperation are a valuable foundation on which the clubs of today should build for better public service. The clubs of tomorrow will be capable of even greater things."

Following the business session, the Olympian Club, the entertaining club, took over the meeting. Miss Hull, the president, welcoming those present. Miss Hull announced the first number on the afternoon's program to be a piano solo by Miss Reynolds which was thoroughly enjoyed and warmly applauded. In introducing the speaker for the afternoon, Miss Hull reminded her hearers that Sir Francis Bacon had said that only such person could speak and write intelligently of a country as had lived in that country, so that it was with particular interest that the Olympian Club introduced Dr. Dhalwani of India, who would tell of the "Political and Social Life in India."

Dr. Dhalwani, who speaks English fluently, was in his native costume, which was picturesque and handsome.

The speaker began his address with a story which was somewhat as follows: He invited the audience to accompany him to India and to go with him one hundred and fifty miles south of Bombay, to the city of Satara, and take note of what happened there some fifty years ago. In a city in India the people of different castes live on different streets and are not able to have communication with each other because of the difference in caste. Dr. Dhalwani took his audience with him for a walk down the main thoroughfare of Satara to the public square, a beautiful place. It is morning and a lovely Indian girl of twelve years of age in her light Indian draperies, rung from one of the houses on the square to the yard and gathers many small and lovely flowers. Returning to the house she scatters the flowers before the gods whom she worships devoutly and then goes about her daily duties. This is her daily home life until she marries. But in her married life she is not happy, though her unhappiness is not for very long as she becomes a widow. One day on the street she heard a song, which translated into English was, "O, What a Friend We Have in Jesus," and she began to inquire about this "friend."

She learned that it was the God of the Christian people and finally she became a Christian. Then her whole life was changed. Now she could remarry, which she did, but not a man of her caste, but of her faith, a Christian man. A happy home resulted, a home where in time there were fifteen happy children. Yet had this woman not become a Christian she would probably have died as so many of the child widows die. The woman and her husband were able to send their children to a Christian school for their education, and Dr. Dhalwani said that one of them was now in America, and stood before the present audience. He was so proud of his mother that whenever he spoke before a group of women, Dr. Dhalwani said he liked to tell her story, which was enthusiastically applauded.

The lecturer said he was quite optimistic about India. Even Mr. Gandhi, of whose life he gave a brief sketch, he considered as an influence in India not wholly detrimental, since he believes in the Christian principles. With the best of intent as an experiment that should better the future of India, Mr. Gandhi's non-cooperative endeavor among the Indian immigrants in Africa proved but partly successful, however. The one idea of Gandhi, the Christian idea of brotherhood which will do away with the caste system in India, its worst evil, according to the speaker, is Gandhi's greatest service to his native land since he has already succeeded in wiping out caste to a great extent and has also stopped drinking.

While India needs liberty, Dr. Dhalwani felt that it was not yet time to break away from England, because with so vast a number ignorant it would be most doubtful if they could properly exercise their freedom. Certainly India is not at all like America in seeking freedom now, for India could scarcely survive a revolution which would be likely to soon result, as did the United States in fighting for their freedom. With India the second greatest cotton growing country in the world the extremists such as Gandhi would keep all things in India, do their own weaving, etc., but the speaker doubted the advisability of such action. He showed that India is not a nation in any such sense as America, with its many languages, 230 and before the 200,000,000 people can be reformed they must first be nationalized.

Dr. Dhalwani closed his most interesting address with an account of his coming to America eleven years ago to get an education and of the struggles and trials he underwent in the setting of that education, also of the many kindnesses he encountered while living in this country. Unfortunately no newspaper report could give full justice to Dr. Dhalwani's address. After a rising wave of thanks to Miss Reynolds, Dr. Dhalwani and the Olympian Club, the meeting adjourned.

BENJAMIN GOLD IS RECOVERING

Injury Sustained by Saratoga Football Player in Auto Accident Less Serious Than Was Feared—Still in Hospital.

An automobile accident which came near resulting seriously for seven of the Saratoga football players, who were here to play the local high school team, occurred Saturday evening at the Albany avenue bridge of the Ulster & Delaware railroad, when the Saratoga players were returning home. A seven passenger car bearing license number 083210, in which seven of the Saratoga men were riding, had proceeded up Broadway and turned into East St. James street, when one of the Klemm & Huber Saugerties busses coming down Albany avenue from Broadway appeared. It appeared to witnesses as though the two machines raced for the bridge to get over first. As the two machines approached the bridge at the same time the touring car was crowded off east side of the bridge and struck the wooden roofing which is raised slightly above the bridge floor and is used to cover the gas or water mains which run over the bridge.

When the touring car struck this roof three of the occupants were thrown from the machine and through the roof. Benjamin Gold was quite seriously injured and was rendered unconscious for some time. He was taken to the Benedictine Hospital where he was attended by Dr. Mark O'Meara. An X-ray photograph was made to determine the extent of his injuries. At first it was thought his skull had been fractured. Watson Brown and Lawrence B. Olds were also thrown through the roof but escaped with but slight injuries. Gold appeared to be quite seriously injured and lay for about 40 minutes on the lawn in front of the Metzger residence in an unconscious condition before an ambulance could be secured by telephone. Grogan's ambulance finally taking him to the hospital.

The car was being driven by Charles Ferguson and was occupied by James Swarthout Jr., captain of the team; John Shay, assistant coach; Milton Brickner, Watson Brown, Lawrence B. Olds and Benjamin Gold. Gold's condition today was reported as good and his injuries are not deemed of a serious nature. He is being treated by Dr. O'Meara for a fracture of a process of the vertebra in his neck.

At the time of the accident there were several cars in line, the car being driven by Ferguson being one of several which was returning to Saratoga.

TWO EXHIBITS THAT HALTED CROWDS AT SHOW

One of the exhibits at the Exposition in the automobile tent which attracted a great deal of attention was the show chassis of a Willys-Knight motor car. This chassis with the various parts exposed to view and covered with a glass hood over the engine, differed from the usual show chassis as it was in actual operation. The motor being kept going instead of being turned over by a motor and battery as is usually the custom with a show chassis. The operation of the sleeve valve engine was also demonstrated.

The big passenger bus exhibited by the Stuyvesant Garage attracted attention standing among the smaller cars at the show. It was one of the big White trucks mounted with a passenger carrying body.

Anthracite First Burned in 1808.

Anthracite coal was first experimentally burned, and its value as a fuel and marketable commodity tested, in the old Fell house, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in February, 1808. The experiment was conducted in a very primitive sort of grate built for the purpose by Judge Jesse Fell, then one of the leading men in the community. He had written in letters to relatives describing the achievement, and had for some time contended that if properly ignited the "stone coal," as it was then called, would burn, but his friends laughed at him. They would not believe him until they had, as he wrote, "ocular demonstration of the fact." Day after day the old room in the tavern was crowded with the people of the little village, and the travelers who passed through, and soon to all parts of the region where outcroppings of coal had been discovered, the news was borne.

Bells With Interesting Histories.
The bells of the old missions along the length of California must have interesting histories, but there is little of an authentic nature concerning them. One of them at Santa Ysabel, San Diego, lacks but seven years of being two hundred years old. It is marked "N. S. de Loreto, 1782," which means Our Lady of Loreto. The real origin of this bell is not known, but it is said to have been in service in Lower California where the missions were established 100 years before the mission fathers invaded Alta, Calif. These bells must have been a powerful aid to the fathers in gaining the attention and interest of the Indians and it seems that some facts concerning the castings should have been kept, but there appears to be nothing like an authentic record.

Tame Enough in Front.

Pat Hegarty had just purchased a mule, but he did not obtain from the animal all that he required of it. So he wended his way back to the horse dealer.

"You said this mule was quite tame," he said to the dealer.

"And so he is tame, isn't he?" replied the dealer, in an aggrieved tone.

"Not altogether—only partially so," the disconsolate Hegarty replied. "He is tame in front, I dare say, but he is desperately wild behind!"

AL KING WRITES SONG OF KINGSTON

Following are the words of the song composed and sung by Al King at the Kingston Exposition:

There's an Ivy covered cottage
Where the old folks wait for me
Near the Catskill is old Kingston by the sea
It's a quaint old fashioned farm house
Where I saw the light of day
Recollections paint the scene so far away.

North the clinging Ivy vine
There's a Ten Broeck drug store sign
On the chicken house it says
"Wear Cohen's clothes!"
On the old red barn you read
That Rose-Gordon-Rose you need
And a big sign advertising C. C. O. H!
The back fence is held up by Palen's lumber
And the breezes sing the praise of Kingston town Aunt Jennima's smiling face, right from Jene Crutt's place

That's a picture of my old Kingston town.
On the pastures gentle bed
There's an old road "Steinmann's brand"
And we have the Barth plant working night and day There's a pair of Hymen's shoes helps keep away the blues
And a life size picture of our Packard home
Oh! the Delco light is working wonders daily
And the Up-to-Date is showing styles
galore
Herzog's paint shop on Wall street
Is the one that can't be beat
That's a picture of my dear old Kingston town.

On the main street of our town
There's a store of great renown
Harrie Brown keeps auto tires that we need
On the same street down a pace
There's Van Wageningen's busy place
And Mollott he keeps them going at top speed
Oh! The Shultz and Bogart office is quite handy
And the Decker Fowler office is nearby
If you're living in the pub
There's the Elmer Auto Club
That's a picture of my dear old Kingston town.

There's a place that has the dash
It's the agent for the Nash
It's the most motor car that's in the town
Sure it has the pep and speed
Just as much as one could need
And its brother Cadillac is known to fame
These are cars that get there—stay there in the long run.

And the price you pay is cheapest in the end
If you want the best there is
For to show you is our biz
That's a picture of my dear old Kingston town.

On the city's gay white way
There's a place that's here to stay
It's the Kingston Gas and Electric plant
you see

There's a store not far away
Where's sporting goods for sale
It's a place that brings you here to get your play

Oh! There's Thomson's laundry, Burget's and Muller's
They are merchants that will treat you on the square
On the city's on the rise
Sing its praises to the skies
That's a picture of my dear old Kingston town.

There's a place away uptown
It's the best one to be found
It's the photo place of Pennington you see
There's the Wonderbig shop
Has the big sales at the top
It's the place where all the good folks spend their money

There's the Kingston Oil the Fessenden and Gregory
These merchants have the prestige far and wide Oh! The Exposition's fine
Bring it here again some time
That's a picture of my dear old Kingston town

Society Notes

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

Outstanding Film at the Opera House This Week.

D. W. Griffith's "Orphans of the Storm" the attraction at the Kingston Opera House tonight and all this week, is being presented with an augmented orchestra playing the entire original score which makes necessary only two performances daily at 2:30 and 8:15. The seats are reserved and patrons are requested to be in their seats before the rise of the curtain. Mr. Griffith has taken Kate Claxton's oft-used version and added to it characters and scenes of the French revolution on a gigantic scale, ten thousand actors were used in the making of this production and the title roles are played by Lillian and Dorothy Gish.

At Keeney's tonight and Tuesday is "One Clear Call" from Frances Nimmo Greene's story of the south starring Claire Windsor, Milton Sills and Henry B. Walthall. This is a drama of a man who stood between a wandering wife and a husband who was just a broken promise, a great story with a dramatic thrill of a night riders' raid. News weekly, Prizma and a comedy are added features.

At the Auditorium tonight Priscilla Dean in Stuart Paton's drama of woman against woman "Reputation." Tuesday "In the Days of Buffalo Bill."

"Round Robin."

A round robin is a form of petition, protest or appeal signed by a number of persons whose signatures are arranged in a circle so that no signer can be identified from the position of his name on the document as a leader in its composition. It is not authorized by army or navy regulations, which are designed to provide ample opportunity for registering dissatisfaction through official channels. Resort has been had to it sometimes by military men to protest against the conduct, plans and behavior of commanders deservedly or undeservedly unpopular.

Matter Full of Holes.

It was first shown by Thomson that matter is neither continuous nor homogeneous. He showed by an experiment that hydrogen can be passed into a vacuum bulb through an incandescent platinum window. In a similar way sodium passes through glass, and this is a useful bit of knowledge in the manufacture of vacuum tubes, because sodium can be passed into the tube to absorb the residual oxygen. Belatti, the Italian physicist, has shown that hydrogen can pass through cold iron. Matter may therefore be generally regarded as full of holes.

Father of "Mother Goose."

Elizabeth Vercoe, the Massachusetts widow credited by many with the nursery rhymes and stories known as the "Mother Goose" stories, was not the first to publish some of the best-known ones, says the Mentor Magazine. Charles Perrault, a French author who lived from 1628 to 1708, published "The Tales of My Mother the Goose," in which Puss-in-Boots and other characters known to every child appear.

THEN THERE WAS TROUBLE

Mrs. Naggett's Observation Might Have Been the Exact Truth, but It Spread No Oil.

Mrs. Naggett had taken a house at the seaside, wherein she and her family might spend a fortnight's holiday. When, however, the family arrived on the scene, they turned up their noses at everything, and even blamed the sea for being grey instead of blue.

"Humph," grumbled Mr. Naggett. "Don't think much of this place! No nice shops, no nice drives, no nice scenery—no nice nothing!"

"Yes, but," said Mrs. Naggett, "there are several disagreeable features about this place that weren't here when I came last year."

"To what features are you referring?" growled Mr. Naggett.

"Yours!" replied Mrs. Naggett, tartly.

One to Every Sixty-Five Thousand Miles Flown, is the Average So Far Recorded.

There are many Americans who consider flying an extremely hazardous undertaking—one that gives you about a fifty-fifty break for your life. Fokker touched on this point when he was visiting in Chicago a few months ago—and passed it over by saying: "Of course there are also those people who are afraid to ride a trolley car or use a telephone."

One of the aerial transportation companies flying planes between Paris and the cities of neighboring countries recently reported a minor accident to one of their star pilots, prefacing the announcement with the fact that this pilot had driven planes over 250,000 miles for them with no other accident of any kind. And one could wear out a good many sets of cord tires and encounter many a smash in motoring 250,000 miles.

An accident to about every 65,000 miles flown is what one expert estimates to be the average of the European aerial transportation company. It is doubtful if our railroads can show a better average than that. Certainly our motor travel cannot.—Robert C. Remont in the Illustrated World.

Snake's Last Meal.

An Ontario woman recently found a large black snake curled on the top of a basket of eggs, which she had placed in a cool dark closet. Opening the door of the closet, she thought some article of clothing had fallen on the eggs, but as she bent to pick it up, to her alarm it moved. A hoarse croak was heard, and the basket "gingerly" lifted and taken to the back yard, where the snake was dispatched; when stretched out it measured nearly six feet. It is thought the snake had gone into the house the previous day, as several empty egg shells testified that it had had an ample meal.

Great Flight of Fireflies.

To assist in a celebration which will be held soon near Osaka, legions of giant Genji fireflies will play an important part in the "stage effect" of the river scenes that are being planned. Thirty thousand of these, a species much larger than those found in the United States, have been collected alive by the Young Men's Association of Moriama. Here the firefly attains its largest size. These will be released on the river's bank at the proper time in the course of celebration, and 3,000 more are to be distributed among those present.

Decidedly "Fishy."

The Ontario temperance act enforcement officers seem to be loading on the job in Dundas county, judging from a report from Kingston, which says: "The people of Ingersoll, in Dundas county, are greatly excited by a monster that has appeared in the river opposite that town. Residents saw an enormous shape rise out of the river and throw a volume of water higher than the average house. This has happened twice during the past week."—Montreal Daily Herald.

ST. MARY'S GREETED ITS NEW PASTOR

The Rev. Joseph B. Scully took up his new duties as pastor of St. Mary's Church this city on Saturday. On Sunday morning at each of the Masses he introduced himself to the congregation. Father Scully lauded the work of his predecessor, the Very Rev. John J. Hickey, and asked that the same cooperation be shown him as to former pastors. He also invoked the prayers of the parishioners for himself and his worthy assistants that his work in St. Mary's might be successful.

Masses to be offered on All Souls' Day at St. Mary's are 6, 7, 8 and a high Mass at 9 o'clock.

Tonight at 8 o'clock in St. Mary's School the congregation will assemble to welcome their new pastor. Andrew J. Cook will give the address on behalf of the people of St. Mary's. The Rev. J. J. Duffy will also address the gathering and Father Scully will respond. There will also be a program of entertainment and dancing will be enjoyed throughout the evening.

K.H.S. TEAM SHOWS BIG IMPROVEMENT

In Saturday's Game When They Defeated the Saratoga Eleven by a 18 to 7 Score—Changes in Back Field Prove Effective.

Who won the Saratoga-Kingston game Saturday? Well, Friday night when the fellows were coming in from practice one player was heard to remark, "We beat them tomorrow, boys, or Molly Stark's a widow," and we have yet to receive any official notice of the death of one John Stark, beloved husband of Molly Stark, for the final tally was 18-7, with Kingston on the big end.

After losing three games, one of which, however, has been protested, and trying one, Kingston came to the fore Saturday and took the third of a series of games with Saratoga for the first victory of the season. It was a great victory, for it showed that Kingston can win if they get the pep into their playing; and yet we cannot brag about it, for the up-staters were not in condition, having arrived here at a late hour Friday night, or rather Saturday morning. The Saratoga aggregation also was at a disadvantage because they did not know their signals to perfection, so they deserve much praise for making the one touchdown. Kingston had the edge on Saratoga in size and weight. The mainstays of the upstate team were Kiley and Leonard. They did most of the gaining for the visitors. For Kingston, Colvin and Souers were again the backfield stars. Vogt deserves much credit for his well managed attack. Leverett, who made his debut in the position of full back, called forth much praise from the spectators. "Eddie" is some runner, and when he hits the line someone besides himself knows it. In the line O'Reilly was the star. More than one of Saratoga's players were mugged up when Bill broke through and sent sprawling the man carrying the ball. "Hannah" Bradley made his first appearance in a game, as a tackle. As McLane did not play the full game on account of an injured shoulder, while Bradley is light for that position, he showed a good brand of tackling. The line played well as a whole in all but the second quarter, when they allowed Saratoga to gain their one touch-down, but they did not play as well as they did a week ago Saturday and must show marked improvement if they expect to beat Poughkeepsie next Saturday. There were not so many fumbles as in last week's game; Kingston ends playing better on the defense, but there was no Bellinger in deal with either Carroll, who was substituted for Anderson, attempting interception. Although he when the latter took Souers' place in the backfield after Casper was hurt, showed much improvement in his playing over last week. One week's practice has done a great deal toward making the backfield, and also better players.

A cleaver game of football has not been played on this field in some time, some time than the one Saturday. Again there were but two penalties. One was a five yard penalty against the visitors when their men overran a punt and touched the ball before a Kingston player. The other was a fifteen yard penalty against Saratoga, the reason for which is a little doubtful. It appeared as though a Saratoga man on the line of scrimmage was holding when he stuck out his arm against a Kingston player while the former was on the offense. The referee being a strict official the penalty was called. Except for this one doubtful case, the Saratoga team showed a fine spirit of good sportsmanship throughout the game.

Summary: Saratoga won the toss and chose to kick. Kiley kicked off to Vogt who ran the ball to the thirty-five yard line. Colvin started things off by phoning Souers went through tackle and Colvin around end with slight gains then Souers took the ball through center for a first down. Souers went around right end for about a yard. Leverett made twenty yards and another first down on a forward pass. Souers around and for four, then Colvin through center for the third first down. Leverett through center for four yards. Souers around right end for nine yards and our fourth first down. Colvin carried the ball around left end to the one yard line and Souers took it through center for the first touchdown, before the game had been going seven minutes. Vogt attempted to drop kick the goal, but failed to make the extra point.

Vogt kicked off to Kiley, who ran the ball back to the thirty-two yard line. Kiley gained six yards on a center rush, and Leonard a scant yard on an off tackle play. Here Saratoga was penalized fifteen yards for holding. Leonard went through center for five yards. Kiley kicked to Vogt. Souers around left end for fifteen yards and our fifth first down. Colvin through center for another first down. Colvin made four yards on a run around left end. At this point the whistle blew, calling the first quarter to a close, with the ball in Kingston's possession on Saratoga's thirty-two yard line.

Leverett made eight yards and another first down going through tackle. Souers and Leverett each advanced the ball two yards, and Colvin romped around left end for Kingston's second touchdown. Again Vogt failed to make the extra point by drop-kicking the ball.

Vogt kicked about twenty yards to Starks, who was downed in his tracks. Kiley broke through center for seven yards; Leonard followed by making five yards and a first down going through tackle. A long end run failed to net them anything. Leonard went through tackle for two yards. The Kingston line continued to weaken. Kiley next made twenty yards and first down on a long end run around the left wing from kick formation. Leonard went through center for eight yards. An off-tackle play and an end run gave them about a yard. Leonard smashed through the line on an off-tackle play and brought the ball to the five yard line, and a first down. At this point McLane was substituted for Bradley and Carroll for Souers. Kiley brought the ball to the one yard line on a line plunge. Leonard failed to gain on a center rush. Kiley carried the ball through center for Saratoga's lone touchdown. Kiley made the extra point by a drop kick. Kiley kicked sixty yards to Vogt, who brought the ball back to the twenty-five yard line. Colvin was called back, for a kick formation. When Colvin was just about to throw a pass a Saratoga player broke through and attempted to stop the pass. Colvin managed to get off a short pass and Vogt caught it and gained about five yards. Carroll went through tackle for five yards and a first down. Colvin gained three yards on a center rush. Shea got through and spoiled the next play, blocking Leverett, who rolled over, and started off again, but the ball had touched the ground and was brought back. Kingston losing about four yards. An attempted forward pass to Mac Fadden failed. Don was hindered Bellinger in deal with either Carroll, by two Saratoga players who were at who was substituted for Anderson, attempting interception. Although he when the latter took Souers' place in the backfield after Casper was hurt, showed much improvement in his playing over last week. One week's practice has done a great deal toward making the backfield, and also better players.

Although he when the latter took Souers' place in the backfield after Casper was hurt, showed much improvement in his playing over last week. One week's practice has done a great deal toward making the backfield, and also better players.

A cleaver game of football has not been played on this field in some time, some time than the one Saturday. Again there were but two penalties. One was a five yard penalty against the visitors when their men overran a punt and touched the ball before a Kingston player. The other was a fifteen yard penalty against Saratoga, the reason for which is a little doubtful. It appeared as though a Saratoga man on the line of scrimmage was holding when he stuck out his arm against a Kingston player while the former was on the offense. The referee being a strict official the penalty was called. Except for this one doubtful case, the Saratoga team showed a fine spirit of good sportsmanship throughout the game.

Summary: Saratoga won the toss and chose to kick. Kiley kicked off to Vogt who ran the ball to the thirty-five yard line. Colvin started things off by phoning Souers went through tackle and Colvin around end with slight gains then Souers took the ball through center for a first down. Souers went around right end for about a yard. Leverett made twenty yards and another first down on a forward pass. Souers around and for four, then Colvin through center for the third first down. Leverett through center for four yards. Souers around right end for nine yards and our fourth first down. Colvin carried the ball around left end to the one yard line and Souers took it through center for the first touchdown, before the game had been going seven minutes. Vogt attempted to drop kick the goal, but failed to make the extra point.

Vogt kicked off to Kiley, who ran the ball back to the thirty-two yard line. Kiley gained six yards on a center rush, and Leonard a scant yard on an off tackle play. Here Saratoga was penalized fifteen yards for holding. Leonard went through center for five yards. Kiley kicked to Vogt. Souers around left end for fifteen yards and our fifth first down. Colvin through center for another first down. Colvin made four yards on a run around left end. At this point the whistle blew, calling the first quarter to a close, with the ball in Kingston's possession on Saratoga's thirty-two yard line.

Leverett made eight yards and another first down going through tackle. Souers and Leverett each advanced the ball two yards, and Colvin romped around left end for Kingston's second touchdown. Again Vogt failed to make the extra point by drop-kicking the ball.

Vogt kicked about twenty yards to Starks, who was downed in his tracks. Kiley broke through center for seven yards; Leonard followed by making five yards and a first down going through tackle. A long end run failed to net them anything. Leonard went through tackle for two yards. The Kingston line continued to weaken. Kiley next made twenty yards and first down on a long end run around the left wing from kick formation. Leonard went through center for eight yards. An off-tackle play and an end run gave them about a yard. Leonard smashed through the line on an off-tackle play and brought the ball to the five yard line, and a first down. At this point McLane was substituted for Bradley and Carroll for Souers. Kiley brought the ball to the one yard line on a line plunge. Leonard failed to gain on a center rush. Kiley carried the ball through center for Saratoga's lone touchdown. Kiley made the extra point by a drop kick. Kiley kicked sixty yards to Vogt, who brought the ball back to the twenty-five yard line. Colvin was called back, for a kick formation. When Colvin was just about to throw a pass a Saratoga player broke through and attempted to stop the pass. Colvin managed to get off a short pass and Vogt caught it and gained about five yards. Carroll went through tackle for five yards and a first down. Colvin gained three yards on a center rush. Shea got through and spoiled the next play, blocking Leverett, who rolled over, and started off again, but the ball had touched the ground and was brought back. Kingston losing about four yards. An attempted forward pass to Mac Fadden failed. Don was hindered Bellinger in deal with either Carroll, by two Saratoga players who were at who was substituted for Anderson, attempting interception. Although he when the latter took Souers' place in the backfield after Casper was hurt, showed much improvement in his playing over last week. ## ENTERTAINMENT FOR "Y" BOYS

The boys' department of the local Y. M. C. A. is planning on giving the fellows a good time every Friday night. Chairman Stelle of the social committee has something interesting planned for all of these nights. So far the boys have enjoyed a Bible study and lecture on the eastern states, which was given by Mr. Safford. Last Friday evening the boys had what might be termed a "variety entertainment." The Smith brothers, who entertained the crowds at the exposition, were present and demonstrated many grips of the art of wrestling and gave an exhibition match. Chairman Stelle gave several monologues. Erastus Osgood gave a very delightful entertainment, playing the banjo and reciting monologues. His part of the program made a decided hit with the boys. The program also had for one part a "sing." The fellows left the "Y" convinced that there is a great deal of fun in a membership in that organization, and that Stelle is a wide-awake chairman for the social committee.
